New York, New York, September 28, 2009: Southern Lithoplate Web Site Wins Award in 2009 GD USA Graphic Arts Design Competition.

Southern Lithoplate's new web site has been recognized in the Graphic Design USA web design competition sponsored by HP. The competition is one of the largest graphics design awards competitions in the US. The judges reviewed over 10,000 submissions, primarily from the US, in 24 categories and made 1,000 awards. The competition is open to advertising agencies, graphic design firms, corporate, institutional and publishing in-house departments. The majority of the submissions were in the areas of print, packaging, point-of-purchase, Internet, interactive, and motion graphics. Graphic Design USA, a subscription only publication, is circulated monthly to 28,000 professional designers, primarily in the US.

"We are pleased that our site's purposeful design to be user friendly, accessible, and packed with information has been recognized in this competition. We thank CAI for their work in helping us bring our commitment to our customers to life via the internet", stated Steve Mattingly, VP Sales & Marketing, Southern Lithoplate.
